Charleston County Hosts 2013 Earth Day Festival on April 20

11 a.m. - 4 p.m. at Riverfront Park in North Charleston

Charleston County's Environmental Management Department invites citizens to join in celebrating Earth Day during the 2013 Earth Day Festival on Saturday, April 20. The free event will be held from 11 a.m. - 4 p.m. at Riverfront Park on the former Naval Base in North Charleston.

The 14th Annual Earth Day Festival is a celebration of Charleston County's environmental community. The festival provides hands-on educational opportunities for all ages, and highlights the County's environmental programs.

"Our annual Earth Day Festival provides an ideal opportunity for Lowcountry residents to learn how they can make a difference in our community at home, work and play," said Carolyn Carusos, Charleston County Environmental Management Department's Recycling Programs Manager. "Riverfront Park offers a beautiful waterfront setting to enjoy the diverse, fun and family-oriented activities."

Charleston County's Earth Day Festival attracts as many as 8,000 people each year. All participants are asked to commit to reducing waste at the event. Resource Recovery Centers will be strategically located throughout the park to collect recyclable materials and organic waste generated during the festival.

Charleston County's Annual Earth Day Art Contest was held again this year, and students in grades kindergarten through sixth grade submitted drawings for the theme: "One Earth, One Future." The winning artwork will be featured at the event and will be printed on the back of all festival T-shirts.
